Đedović Handanović: We Are Monitoring the Talks Between MOL and the Russians

Minister of Mining and Energy Dubravka Đedović Handanović said that Serbia is monitoring negotiations between the Hungarian company MOL and the Russian owners of NIS, but that the outcome of those talks and any decisions by the US administration are beyond Serbia's control. She stressed that Serbia's work regarding MOL had been completed and that the state would continue to strengthen commodity reserves and ensure energy stability.

Vučević: We Are Preparing for a Winning Campaign

Miloš Vučević, president of the Serbian Progressive Party and adviser to the President of the Republic, visited the SNS party's new premises in Jagodina and announced preparations for a winning campaign in the upcoming elections. He stressed the importance of elections that will determine the choice between a united and independent Serbia and a Serbia marked by violence and division, emphasising the need to devote attention to every individual and to the state.

Vučić: Cooperation with the WHO to Improve Healthcare and Services

The Council of the Regulatory Authority for Electronic Media (REM) is holding its constitutive session after four members who had previously submitted their resignations decided to remain in the body because parliament did not accept their resignations as legally valid. Council member Miloš Garić said that the chair and deputy chair would be elected at the first session, which is crucial for the continuation of the Council's work. He also announced intensive work on future tasks, including the appointment of members of the governing boards of the public broadcasters RTS and RTV.
