Srdanović: A Society of Justice Is the First Step, Followed by All Other Measures

Ilija Srdanović, first on the "Student List," said that their first move, if they win the elections, would be to create a society of justice in which the law is respected. He stressed that without justice and equality before the law, there can be no further steps. Srdanović said that the rules of the game would apply to everyone, including President Vučić and every other citizen. He also said that lustration is not a sensitive issue and that those who have not broken the law should not fear it, but rather those who have engaged in corruption and the looting of public enterprises.
