It said that there were more than 22,000 passengers on its flights on Monday, July 20. "Over the course of Monday, 20 July 2026, Air Serbia carried 22,098 passengers, achieving the best single-day result in the airline's history and surpassing its previous record of more than 21,600 passengers, set on 1 August 2025," the press release said. "This confirms the strong demand for Air Serbia's flights and shows that an increasing number of passengers are choosing our airline to travel to destinations across the region, Europe and beyond," it quoted CEO Jiří Marek as saying. "On 20 July, Air Serbia's most popular regional destinations were Tivat and Podgorica. When it comes to Western Europe, Zurich and Barcelona recorded the highest demand. In the Euro-Mediterranean region, the most sought-after destinations were Larnaca, Antalya, Athens and Istanbul, and on the airline's long-haul network, the most popular service was Belgrade-New York," it specified.
